Education is one of the most important things for everyone. People study different subjects to get knowledge and skills. But modern education has some problems. For example, students reluctance to study, outdated teaching methods, ineffective use of time. Nowadays teachers rarely use information technologies in education, but it is very convenient and useful. Ineffective use of time is a very big problem for education. But meTest can solve some of this problems.

meTest is a program that allows you to pass tests on phones. Teachers must create test or use already existing. After that they need run on computer special program. As a result students can pass tests from phone and get mark at once. meTest consists of 3 components: creator of test, server and application for Android. In creator of test teacher can create new test or edit old. Server is a special program to connect students for test. Students can pass test from phone with Android.
